REPORT OF SCHOOL BOARD.

The administration of the public schools of Hampstead for the past year has been accomplished without notable variation from the established policy of the town.

Educationally the problems for the town are progressive rather than revolutionary and the accomplishment of the greatest amount of good to the growing body of pupils supported by a continuance of the liberal provision the town has always made.

For general problems reference is made to the report of the superintendent.

In the summer vacation your school board united with the school boards of Raymond and Lee and organized a supervisory district, securing the services of Mr. O. H. Adams, and shortly after the opening of the school year he assumed the duties as superintendent of the district.

There is a growing evil in the district in allowing the children to be absent and tardy as the school registers show that they are. We wish we might impress on every parent and guardian the importance of having each child in his or her place at the opening of the session. Please work with your committee the coming year and make an improvement in the attendance that will be a benefit to the student body, a higher rank with the State, and more money from the State on average attendance.

Your board were obliged to expend more for repairs than they anticipated owing to the platform giving out at No. 2 school and the shingling of No. 4 that were not included in their estimate.

It seems that some provision ought to be made whereby our schools may receive medical inspection. Not only to guard against disease but also to help and relieve such pupils as may be suffering from defective eyesight, adenoids and kindred diseases that may prevent them from receiving the full benefit of the money expended for them.

Thanking the teachers and parents for the assistance and support they have given the school board this report is respectfully submitted.

WOODBURY D. ROGERS,
GEORGE E. MORSE,
ADIN S. LITTLE,

School Board.

REPORT OF SUPERINTENDENT.

---

To the School Board and Citizens of Hampstead:

I herewith submit my first annual report as your superintendent of schools.

I began my work in September and because of lack of data covering the work of previous years, at first it was largely that of investigation and getting acquainted. I found teachers willing to co-operate in furnishing information but there was no record of work accomplished nor inventory of stock on hand. My first duty, therefore, was, while becoming acquainted with conditions, to test classes, to help get each scholar into a class where he could do his best work and to inventory stock on hand. This has been done so far as time has permitted, additions to books and supplies have been made, old and worthless books collected, sorted and disposed of, programs arranged to avoid loss of energy and time, and frequent consultations with teachers over every day problems.

The greatest evil in the schools is the many unnecessary absences from school. The only efficient way to overcome this is to appoint a capable truant officer and to heartily co-operate with him in the discharge of his duty. He should either visit each school often or have some means of communication with each teacher so he might be able to know of all absences and then paid for hunting up every case that was not known to have a reasonable excuse. $50.00 spent for a truant officer who would do his duty would be worth many times that amount to the children of the town. Few tax payers realize that an absence of one-fourth of the scholars all the time means a loss of one-fourth of the school money to the town besides the incalculable loss to the child in his work. Pleasant school rooms, well lighted and heated, ample books and supplies, efficient teachers are furnished for the education of the children and yet, any day, children are known to be playing in the woods and fields or staying at home for no good and sufficient reason. One of the first duties of the tax payers and the parents is to meet and remedy this waste of energy.

The town is to be congratulated on the excellence of its school houses. Only minor repairs are needed.

The expert visiting the schools would be impressed with the considerable number of children suffering from some physical weakness. Chief among these are poor teeth, adenoids, enlarged tonsils. If children frequently or habitually breathe through the mouth or are subject to frequent colds or show defects of pronunciation and hearing or if they appear mentally dull or slow most of the time, adenoids are almost surely present. Parents frequently do not notice these defects as does the teacher and are slow to admit that there is trouble when it is called to their attention. When any weakness whether of hearing, seeing or mental action is known, a physician should be consulted at once. Life long misery may be prevented. A rapid change in disposition and mental ability is sure to follow efficient treatment. Here is where the services of a health physician in the schools is most valuable. It is entirely safe to say that one-fourth of all our school children are suffering from some physical ailment and that they could be relieved or cured if cared for in time. I recommend the employment of a health physician who shall visit each school at frequent intervals, who shall examine eyes, nose, throat, ears and lungs of each scholar at least once each year and report, through the teacher, to the parents if trouble is found.

The academy, or town high school, is in a prosperous condition. It is fortunate in its teachers and the support it receives from the town, still it has its needs. The renovated building and the change in its heating plant make the building more attractive and comfortable. Its most pressing need today is a chemical laboratory. No provision is made for personal work in chemistry. The State requires a laboratory in those secondary schools where chemistry is taught, and the State superintendent recommends that provision be made for one this spring. In accordance with his recommendation and because of the evident needs of the school I recommend that a special appropriation of $200.00 be made for the fitting up of a chemical laboratory in the high school and for apparatus and supplies. After the first expense this can be maintained by a small expense each year. The principal of the school is heartily in sympathy with the recommendation and is entirely capable of conducting the work.

Emphasis has been placed for the few months of my work on securing better results in primary reading. Approved methods have been introduced and with fairly satisfactory results. There was no material for the first grade but children soon after entering school were given second grade readers, pushed beyond their depth and so caused to stumble along for two or more years over work that should have been accomplished in one year. Material is being given to children in the first grade that is suited to their needs and better results may be expected. With proper teaching, children should by the end of the third year have acquired all the principles of good reading so the work after that may be spent in acquiring vocabularies and skill in reading with a better understanding of the thought of the text.

I thank the school board and teachers for all encouragement and assistance. The chairman of the board with whom I have had the closest relations has been of invaluable assistance at all times.

In accordance with the statutory requirements I recommend the following appropriations:

Books and supplies, $200.00.

Flags and appurtenances, $15.00.

Respectfully submitted,

O. H. ADAMS, Superintendent.
